PROJECTS

User-fy

live | github

A film sharing website where it allows users to post their own films for others to watch.

- Handled data validation and user authentication on the backend.
- Allowed the frontend to keep track of input information provided by the user and send the request back to the backend endpoint in which the new data is created.
- Crafted each page with the structural HTML architecture for optimal use of CSS and to position elements with precision and ensure an effective user experience.
- Filtered each film by type by inserting records using Sequelize and configuring a migration for creating a table to include cascade deletion of associated records.

IDbnb

live | github

This Airbnb clone allows users to upload and update their own spots and leave their own reviews.

- Ensuring privacy by utilizing BCrypt Hashing function on the backend.
- Demonstrated the ability to allow users to create and update spots using React hooks, and allowed the frontend to keep track of the users inputs.
- Designed the ability for users to view their own spots by filtering their spots using WHERE Clauses in Sequelize and HTML and CSS for the user to clearly identify.

Tic-Tac-Toe

live | github

A Javascript game where two players take turns putting crosses and zeros into squares in order to get either straight vertical line or horizontal line.

- Designed the logic to track users inputs and clicks using javascript 'if' conditional logic to announce a winner.
- Designed the CSS and HTML architecture for users to effectively use and play the game.
